MACKEREL ON MIDDLE BANK.

Good Schools Have Been Seen There Recently.

Netting Fleet Are Picking Up Some Fish.

Evidently there have been quite a lot of mackerel on Middle Bank recently, for several of the haddockers have reported seeing schools. On their last trips schs. Arcadia and Lucania both saw mackerel schooling there and the sloop Golden Eagle, which came over from Provincetown Thursday, also saw a few schools there.

Several of the small schooner boats are at present engaged in mackerel netting and during the week past have landed some fish. Most of the boats have got from 25 to 100 mackerel on a trip, while some have got none. Three nice trips have been secured, the Gracie a few days ago having 1400 and yesterday the Marguerite came in with 1200 and the Azorean went to Boston with 1700 in count. All the netting skippers believe that if good weather holds there is a good chance to get some good hauls off there.

MADE QUICK TRIP.

Sch. Kentucky Arrives with Full Fare of Salt Herring.

Sch. Kentucky, Capt. George W. Turner, arrived this morning from Bay of Islands, N. F., with a full cargo of salt herring. Capt. Turner has made a very quick trip, being only 29 days on the whole trip, which is certainly losing no time. He reports encountering strong head winds on the homeward passage and on last Tuesday was obliged to put into Halifax for shelter.

WEEKLY FISH MARKET.

Trade the past week has shown a gratifying increase in volume and orders are coming forward in larger numbers than for several weeks past.

The whole situation as it appears to the big dealers is that the salt fish trade is fair, the demand for smoked blotters is very good and the salt mackerel market is dull.

The local salt fish market shows no changes of moment and prices hold strong at the same high figures. Fresh fish are still in good demand and prices seem to be liable to remain fixed at the top notch quotations which have been in force for the past three or four weeks. The only exception to this is on round pollock which are still bringing 80 cents per hundred weight. The catch of these fish has been large and some of the dealers are not anxious for any more at the present price.

Several more of the salt bank fleet have arrived, but with very small fares. On these the high prices are still sustained. Four cargoes of salt herring have thus far arrived from Bay of Islands, and these fish are in lively demand, prices ranging from $3.78 to $4 per barrel.

The receipts at this port for the week ending Nov. 12 are

1,074,000 lbs. salt cod.
60,000 lbs. fresh cod.
367,000 lbs. hake.
90,000 lbs. cusk.

Fishing Fleet Movements.

Sch. Monitor of Provincetown is fitting for a Newfoundland salt herring trip.

Schs. S. P. Willard and Jubilee were at Canso on Wednesday.

Sch. H. S. Boynton arrived at Boston from Rockport yesterday.

The New England catch of salt mackerel is to date 28,198 barrels against 43,800 barrels last year at this time.

The imports of new salt mackerel at Boston have been 20,194 barrels against 36,226 barrels last year.

The shipments of Irish salt mackerel to America from Liverpool have been 45,314 barrels against 41,839 barrels last year.

The captain of the salt banker Blue Jacket, which arrived yesterday reports seeing a large quantity of tinker mackerel on Western Bank, recently.

RICH FISHING GROUNDS.

Fortunes in the Northern Pacific Waters Between Asia and America.

The richest fishing grounds in the world are the Northern Pacific waters between America and Asia. In 1847 Americans inaugurated a systematic hunt of the whale in these waters and during 14 years secured in whale oil and whalebone $130,000,000.

When the Americans first came to the Okhotsk sea, a Russian Finnish whaling company was founded in Finland, which earned a very large profit for a few years, but which later had to cease fishing on account of the war between France and England. In the meantime, the Americans also withdrew, but started again in 1888, both in the Behring and the Okhotsk seas. According to official statistics, the yearly American catch on the coast of Siberia and in the Pacific resulted in not less than 200,000 pounds of whalebone, 3,000,000 pounds of whale oil, and 100,000 pounds of tusks, besides other products aggregating an annual value of $1,500,000, which thus entirely escaped the control of the Russian government.

The Japanese have worked the fishing grounds well, particularly on the banks of Sakhalin and Kurilians, where immense masses of salmon and herring appear periodically. The herring is used for manure, while the salmon is salted for export. As an illustration of what these fishings could bring in it may be mentioned that the Japanese in 1896 brought to their country not less than 9,000,000 pounds of this costly manure. Dr. N. Sjunin, who has examined the fisheries in these waters, tells how, during a hard storm, it was no uncommon thing to see heaps of dead fish five or six feet deep, thrown up on the beach.

BAY OF ISLANDS.

Herring Still Found Only in the Humber.

The Bay of Islands Western Star has the following on the herring fishery there:

The herring fishery during the past week has been confined to the Humber Arm, where some large catches have been made. On Monday several boats secured as high as forty barrels, while Tuesday's fishing was equally as good. Several American vessels have cleared the past week, including the Bessie M. Devine, Dictator, George Parker, Robin Hood and Dauntless. The schooners Harvard, Capt. Hines, and Arkona, Capt. Peoples, have arrived since Wednesday. Herring have not yet struck into North Arm, where preparations are being made for the frozen voyage. Already twenty-nine vessels, including the steamer I. N. Yeasey, have arrived, and others are on the way. Beside these there are several local craft in the bay packing herring."

THE POLLOCK FLEET.

Storm Drove Them Off Good Fishing on the Ridges.

The storm greatly disturbed the pollock fleet which had struck big fishing on the Ridges. Many of the fleet went out Saturday and found the fish biting well. Early Sunday the storm came on and some of the vessels came in early. Others hung on, however, but the rapidly falling glass made them finally get their anchors and dart for port. All day long they came beating up the harbor under the closest kind of canvas. Even when darkness shut down they could be seen coming under a smother of foam around the Dog Bar break-water.

Some of the late ones had quite a hard time of it, and one of the skippers told a TIMES representative that his craft never came up the harbor faster than she did last night. He said that the sea outside was exceptionally wicked, and that the wind almost approached the velocity of a hurricane.

The fleet anchored all over the harbor, from Stage Fort way up to the head of the harbor, and all of these pollockers hung on all right, excepting sch. Sheffield, had the latter fortunately escaped damage.

Big Salt Bank Fare.

The new sch. Caveller, Capt. Robert Porper, arrived from her maiden trip to the Grand Bank yesterday, with a big fare of about 275,000 pounds of salt cod. As prices are high, Capt. Porper and his men will make one of the best stocks of the season.

Still Getting Halibut.

The Georges hauler W. H. Moody, Capt. Andrew Gerveneau, of this port arrived at Portland last Thursday with 4000 pounds of fresh halibut. This is the third time the Moody has been in at Portland with a fare of halibut within a very short time. It begins to look as if Capt. Gerveneau knows just where they live or else has a little private spot of his own.

Big Pollock Receipts.

Nearly all of the pollock fleet are in port this morning having been driven in yesterday by the storm. Most of them have big trips and the receipts in this line are the largest of the season. Sch. Valentina, Capt. Charles Ryan, has the largest trip of the season, 62,000 pounds.
